PERSONAL INVITATION

Key cyber security threats, risks and vulnerabilities evolve significantly year on year. Access to illicit content is more prevalent than ever through availability of resources, ever-expanding threat vectors. Even the novice 'hacker' can learn to operate and then use tools and 'inquisitive' thinking to their advantage.

When it comes to keeping pace with the expanding attack surface, implementing effective always-on, strategic security measures is key, including penetration testing. However, choosing the right partnership can be challenging...

- It can be a struggle to find talented testers.
- Very few pen-test organisations have the battle scars of operating in the most dangerous and harshest of environments.
- Even fewer of these firms conduct cutting-edge security research to become leaders in the field.

Success in Challenging Top Secret Environments

We have invited a best-in-class global pentesting firm that meets all the above criteria and more to share their pentesting war stories. They have successfully operated in some of the most heavily defended organisations in the world for more than a decade, and are masters of the trade. Join Subject Matter Expert Sam Kirkman and learn more about

- Evidence based penetration testing.
- How to think like a cyber attacker for a successful pen test.
- War stories (no actual names of clients, sorry) of some of the most compelling tests Sam and his team have carried out.

We look forward to your participation and contribution. To confirm your attendance email info@cm-alliance.com or fill in the registration form.
